We are so grateful that you are taking the time to learn about us and we hope to have the chance to learn about you too.

We understand that the decision you're considering is challenging, scary, courageous and selfless. Your bravery gives us the opportunity we wouldn't otherwise have to build our family.

We enjoy a life filled with love, security, goofiness, commitment, hard work, creativity and adventure. We are so excited to share it with our future child and we cannot wait to become parents again!

ON

Adoption

Mike is a childhood cancer survivor, so we've known for years that adoption would likely be our only way to have children. We feel incredibly lucky to have a full and wonderful life and we're ready and eager to share our joy with children. We have an amazing support system here in Seattle and our family and friends are eagerly awaiting the newest member of our family.

A LITTLE

About Us

Meghan moved to Seattle from Pennsylvania after graduating from college and settled in to a great career and supportive friend group. Mike is a Seattle native and has a awesome friends and lots of family in the area. We started online dating, a thing neither of us really enjoyed, until we met each other.

The sparks were instantaneous and we built a lasting relationship with the cornerstones of respect, care, friendship, and humor.

OUR
LIFESTYLE

We both work from home and absolutely love it. We have great careers and work for companies that allow us growth, stability, and flexibility. We take advantage of the nearby forested park every day for a dog walk. We are very lucky to have Meghan's mom as a live-in grandma/nanny for Theo! After Theo goes to bed, most nights you can find Meghan knitting her newest creation and Mike dominating at a video game, playing golf, or darts at home. We're both homebodies with a love for adventure.

About Meghan

By Michael

Meghan is the most talented and creative person I know. She loves to make beautiful things and learn new skills. I've seen her knit a sweater and build a fence in the same day. She loves reading, or listening to audiobooks so her hands are free to knit. She loves to bake - she once baked 1000 Christmas cookies in one week. But most of all she loves her friends and family. She is endlessly caring, patient, and supportive. Seeing her become a mom has been everything. She's patient, caring, and makes life bright and fun for Theo. We cannot wait to add more love and joy to our family with another child

About Michael

By Meghan

Mike is the smartest, funniest guy I know. I'm serious, he is goofy at home, but is so driven and motivated when he's working. He's handy and helped to top to bottom remodel our first home and is always learning new skills to make our current home just the way we want it! He loves sports, both to watch and play, and spending time with family and friends. He's the best dog dad out there, from walks, park visits and nightly snuggles he has the biggest heart. Watching him settle into fatherhood has been a joy. He's so caring, involved and always able to get Theo to laugh! Watching them play and learn together has been the best. I cannot wait to grow our family with him at my side.

FAVORITES

THEODORA

Meet Theodora! We're incredibly lucky to have matched with this precious little one in 2022 shortly after she was born and being cared for at a NICU nearby. We got to take her home after a few short weeks and officially adopted her early in 2023. She's hit all her growth and development milestones, and we're so grateful for all the extra and excellent care and attention she got as a preemie. Theo is a bright, funny, and opinionated little one. She's ready to be a big sister and teach the new baby about all her favorite things!

OUR HOME

We live just north of Seattle in a beautiful semi-suburban neighborhood. We live on a very quiet street with lots of other kids in the neighborhood. We bought a new home in 2022 with room to grow and we can't wait to welcome little ones into the warm loving space we've created. We have a covered porch for year round outdoor living, a bright sunny entry, and cozy living spaces. We live just a block north of an amazing public park and we're walking distance to schools K-12.

We're incredibly lucky to have an amazing support system close to home and spread across the US. We have lots of friends and family nearby including Mike's parents, brothers' families (plus lots of amazing Aunts/Uncles & Cousins) and Meghan's mom!

Since Meghan is an East Coast transplant we also have a vast network of amazing friends and family living in fun cities like Denver, Philadelphia, New York and D.C. We can't wait to take our kids on trips to visit so they can enjoy East Coast history and keep expanding their world view.

OUR FUR BABY

Meet Winter! We rescued our gorgeous lab/shepherd mix from a local Seattle area rescue. She was abandoned in Iowa and when no one came to claim her they placed her in the PNW. Winter loves long walks, playing with dog friends in her yard or the park, and laying in water whenever she can! Winter is great with kids and loves to give sweet kisses to all the babies she meets. She's large but gentle and we love how much joy she brings to our house every day.

OUR TRADITIONS

Mike is half Icelandic and Meghan is half Korean and half Pennsylvania Dutch so we have a very fun mix of traditions in our house. We love to celebrate what makes each of us unique and to build new traditions together. We cannot wait to incorporate our children's backgrounds into the mix.

OUR PROMISES TO YOUR CHILD

- Provide opportunities for education, creativity, adventure and wonder
- Help develop their unique talents and interests
- Teach them to be honest, generous, kind and self-respecting
- Laugh with them through life's joy and teach resilience to get them through life's challenges
